

פסחים נח

Every afternoon, a קרבן תמיד של בין הערביים (two sheep) is offered in the בית המקדש from when the shadows begin to get longer (which starts occurring at six and a half hours after daybreak). On a regular day, the קרבן תמיד was not נשחט until eight and a half hours of the day, in order to allow for personal קרבנות, as no קרבנות are מקריב after the בין הערביים with the exception of the קרבן פסח.

On שבת there was an extra קרבן called the קרבן מוסף. It was מקריב in the morning after the שחר של תמיד. After which the two spoons of לבונה which had been kept on the שולחן during the week were taken out to the מזבח and burned.
